Community pulls together to fight use of illegal drugs

BY JACQUI COCHRAN

Will the passion of Monday's meeting move forth as a productive team effort, or will the overwhelming job of fighting drug use fall to the wayside?

On September 14 the truth will be known, as the next public town meeting is scheduled for 7 p.m. at St. Rose de Lima Church, TASK FORCES FORMING At this time, four task forces will be organized in which local residents can participate.

Those present were asked to ioin one of the four, which include law enforcement, civic, education or church. On Sepchanges in current laws, increased police presence or increased probation assistance; and improvement of community/law enforcement relations.

For the civic task force, ideas presented were the creation of a community center; development of summer youth programs; cleaning and landscaping areas where known drug participants gather; and the estab-lishment of half-way houses where drug abusers may receive counseling and economic assistance in the re-routing of their lives.

The education task force

Freeing wetlands

Retention pond at Port Bienville Industrial Park may free wetlands to development

BY JACQUI COCHRAN The creation of one or two ponds at the county industrial park, may in turn free 300 acres of marginal wetlands for future industrial development.

Harold "Buz" Olsen, executive director of the Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission stated, "We will have to give up a 90-acre site in order to release approximately 300

He said, a Special Area Management Plan is being considered as an alternative to stringent mitigation regulations enforced by the federal government.

The 2,200-acre park contains about 600 acres of wetlands, approximately 28 percent of the park. The only land left, unsold and undesignated as wetlands, Olsen reported, should a potential developer demonstrate interest in locating at Port Bienville, the commission has only one unencumbered 70-acre parcel to offer along with several 5 and 10 acre locations.

"An industry, for example, the size of Calgon, usually looks to purchase 50-100 acres," he commented.

A developer can purchase. wetland property, but only after meeting all 404 permit requirements.

Mitigation of the wetland acreage would require the creation of a similar wetland area. Acreage ratios vary, depending on the valuation of wetlands proposed for development.

The Special Area Management Plan would call for the rerouting of park drainage, forc-ing all storm and run-off waters into a central pond area.

"We have the existing depression areas," Olsen said. "We would redesign the ditches and drains to cause storm water runoff into these areas. This in effect would create one or two ponds, and drain those acres of

Blue Ribbon panel

Waveland citizens meet bi-monthly to investigate, solve city problems

BY JACQUI COCHRAN

Unknown to most Waveland citizens, a select group of volunteers meets twice a month to investigate and discuss specific city problems.

The panel, created by Mayor

Stella Frilot, will soon release their first project recommenda-tion to the board of aldermen.

"It is up to the mayor," panel chairman Burt Barrett stated, "as to when our recommendation will be presented."
The panel has formulated a plan of action concerning future waste management, and the initiation of a recycling program for the City of Waveland.

The five panel members present Wednesday did not wish to elaborate on the proposal until it is formally presented to the board.

"We began by interviewing representatives from both Waste Management and BFI," Barrett said. We wanted to first see if Waveland was operating as cost effectively as possible, or if it would be cheaper to bring in a commercial service. "From what we found, it is cheaper for the city to operate waste pick up itself rather than go commercial. "We then looked at all the EPA regulations. The first few years we must reduce the quantity of waste by 20 percent. By 1994 ad valorem collections can no longer be used to finance waste disposal.

He admitted crack cocaine use is greater today than 10 years ago, but added, marijua-na, heroin and LSD use is down. PARENT APATHY

Bay St. Louis Police Chief Frank McNeil commented Hancock County has a 30-38% school drop out rate.

He stated, "A lot of it has to do with parent apathy as far as education is concerned. Some of it is drugs. We have so many parents who don't care whether they go (to school) or not.

"I worked for the youth court system for seven years. We could hardly stop the problem. We couldn't put the parents in jail and force compulsory attendance.

"Kids today do not value edu-cation, and that is because the majority of the parents do not value education. Kids today watch TV...and TV glorifies

"As far as an answer, we have plenty of problems. It's going to take numerous solutions.

The Rev. Ken Hamilton, pastor of St. Rose de Lima, asked that those present Monday to spread the word to friends and neighbors to come and join the fight against drugs.

"I don't want to hear years from now, What ever happened to those drug task forces set up back in 1992?"," he stated.

Special car tags available October

Hancock County Tax Assessor Eddie Murtagh announced the issuance of several new special tags by the state, available to the public as of October 1.

Included will be tages recognizing fire fighters; law enforcement officials; state representatives: university designations; Pearl Harbor survivors; purple heart recipients; street rods (modified American vehicles dating 1948 or earlier); and surviving spouses of DAV, Ex-POW, Medal of Honor recipients.

The cost of a special tag for fire fighters, law enforcement officials and state House representatives is $50, to be paid at the time of ordering.

This $50 will be divided with $41.50 going to the Mississippi Burn Center Fund; $7 to the state general fund; and $1.50 to the tax collection commission.

Cost for university designation on a car tag is $50, at time of ordering. This fee will be divided with $32.50 paying for the university display; $14 to the highway maintenance fund; $2.50 to the tax collection commission; and $1 to the Mississippi Burn Center Fund.

Street Rod tags will cost $50 each. This cost will go to the state general fund.

"QUOTABLE QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

A small touch of a cool breeze like we have had early this week makes one begin to think about football. It will not be too long before high school action begins, only eight days.

The Bay Youth Football League is also gearing up for the coming season with registration on Friday evening and Saturday morning.

The league is divided into two categories, minor, ages 8, 9 and 10 and major, 11 and 12 years of age.

Registration will be held on the field behind the Bay Senior High Cafeteria from 5 to 7 p.m. Friday and 9 a.m. to noon on Saturday.

Parents are asked to bring the youngster's birth certificate, or a copy for proof of age, and the registration fee is $25.

The Bay Youth Football League has been popular for the past several years and involves a large number of

FROM THE SENATE

By Senator Trent Lott

An enterprising idea

The Congress has finally decided to put partisan ways aside and act on the President's State of the Union Address request to create enterprise zones.

Enterprise zones designate areas, generally cities, to receive employment and investment incentives. These incentives include employer wage credits, capital gain exclusions, ordinary loss treatment and tax-exempt bond financing expansion.

But, what does all that mean? The bottom-line, do enterprise zones work to spur economic growth?

Housing & Urban Development Secretary Jack Kemp reported that experimental state enterprise zones (about 600) have created nearly 180,000 new jobs and $9 billion in private investment.

The only problem I have with enterprise zones, as written in the Revenue Act of 1992 (or Urban Aid Tax Bill) which passed the House, is that only 25 zones would be crated and taxes would be raised.

Why not create 75 more zones and include such cities as Biloxi, Greenville and Clarksdale? And why the Congress thinks it has to raise taxes every time it tries to do something is beyond me. The last thing we need is another tax increase.

Also, some in Congress are saying that they will go along with enterprise zones, but if a business begins to make a profit, then that business will be taxed. Why reinstate capital gains tax burdens when a business starts to get its head above water? That doesn't make sense and defeats the purpose of enterprise zones.

What stumps me about the whole idea though, is that Secretary Kemp came up with the plan for enterprise zones over a year and a half before the Los Angeles riots. Senator John Danforth of Missouri introduced the idea as a bill entitled tion Act on May 9, 1991, to immediately help distressed areas. The bill was referred to the Finance Committee where it has idly sat for more than 530

More than 530 days passed without creating new jobs and private investment. Where has the Congress been?

Out to pasture, that's where. But, at least the Congress is acting now. Hopefully, Congress will create more enterprise zone designations for Mississippi and the nation, and do so without raising taxes on America.

EYES ON MISSISSIPPI

By Bill Minor

The 'Scooba Summit,' a historic meeting

Could this be the same Mississippi Legislature? The leadership of BOTH houses sitting down together to coordinate and preplan an agenda of legislative goals for the next session?

Certainly it has never happened before that leaders of the two branches of the Legislature jointly sought to find common ground for tackling state prob-lems before the melee of a regular legislative session began.

Something rather historic in the annals of the Mississippi Legislature took place last week. A dozen legislative leaders held what some would call the Scooba Summit, or the Huddle in the Hills, as others would, in the quiet greenery of rural Kemper County.

The pre-session legislative planning conference was largely the innovative concept of Lt. Gov. Eddie Briggs, who got the ready cooperation of House Speaker Tim Ford. Heads of the eight House and Senate committees which deal with money, or programs having the largest outlays of money, sat down

Without any pay, and with no reporters or lobbyists around, they pooled their ideas into joint goals that were put down on paper.

That reporters were not invited to sit in on the discussions announced some of my journalistic compatriots. This didn't bother me. After all, they were not writing laws, only cultivating common ground for focusing next year's legislative agenda. In itself, the 1993 session of the Mississippi Legislature is going to be quite daunting. The entire Legislature, because of the court-ordered elections in new districts, must be reorganized, and probably a third of the membership will be inexperienced.

Instead of the 125 days usually allotted for the first session of a new Legislature, lawmakers will have only 90 days. At least there will be no battle over electing a House Speaker. Tim Ford is certain of holding his job. And no fight over House rules is on tap.

But in the Senate, where President Pro Tempore Ollie Mohamed has gone down in his bid for re-election to his Senate seat, there's already a lot of jockeying underway for the pro tem spot and the race may get very sticky if Lt. Gov. Briggs is perceived to be pushing his own

One known pro tem hopeful is Sen. Terry Jordan (D) of Philadelphia, who some sources say is the favorite of Briggs' staff aide Bill Renick.

There are also rumblings of more reforms in the Senate rules to reduce the absolute control of the lieutenant governor over committee assignments. Briggs had ostensibly taken a hands-off role in the adoption of Senate rules with regard to his powers in the 1992 session, in contrast with his predecessor, Brad Dye.

Only one rule was changed, however, that removing the lieutenant governor as chairman of the powerful Rules Committee, but keeping him as an ex-official member.

Briggs' top priority now is reforming the antiquated "single shot" appropriations process used by the Legislature in order to get a better handle on spending. He, for one thing, wants to eliminate the system of using some 250 separate appropriations bills to build the state budget.

In a joint interview after the two-day legislative planning conference in Scooba, Briggs and Ford said discussions stressed the need for working toward a single budget bill or just a couple of bills combining all appropriations.

Apparently Sen. Dick Hall (R) of Jackson, the Senate Appropriations chairman, favors moving to the budget bill concept as rapidly as possible, while his House counterpart, Rep. Charlie Capps (D) of Cleveland is somewhat less enthusiastic about drastic changes in the system.

Briggs took a delegation out to Texas recently which included Hall, and Tim Ford, to be briefed on the bold budgetary reforms instituted in that state which have brought savings of $2 billion in the past two years. Out of that visit, the Mississippi egislative leaders are determined to push for 'performance-based" budgeting for state agencies.

The Briggs- Ford "Scooba Summit," because it was limited to only certain committee heads, runs the risk of being tagged as a "Super Legislature" by some lawmakers who were excluded.

But it was an innovative move to make the Legislature a more effective arm of state gov-ernment, and that is a welcomed change.

and what they plan to do in the

One item stated prominently in the Governor's agenda, and for which the governor had already stated his strong sup-port, is civil justice reform. For the business community, civil justice reform is an issue of great importance; and it deserves a full, open and honest debate across the state.

With few exceptions, the business community in Mississippi can support the goals of the Governor's agenda. Rebuilding road and bridge infrastructure, the pilot program for choice in education, the line-item veto and revision of the legislative budget process all merit

However, the Governor's call for the election of local school boards is cause for concern. Historically, student achievement is higher in those districts in which school board members are appointed. An appointed board of well-qualified members is less likely to consider the political consequences of actions designed to create the best educational situation in the district.

Further, State Department of Education statistics reveal that in the 52 districts with appointed school board members, a higher percentage of students takes the American College Test and the average com-posite score is higher than in districts that elect board members.

The Governor's call for elected school boards is a move away from providing a quality education for all Mississippi children.

House approves Neighborhood Schools Improvement Act

On August 12, the U.S. House of Representatives approved a $846 million elementary and secondary education school bill that would encourage states to make sweeping changes in education. The Neighborhood School Improvement Act, which I strongly supported, would authorize a ten-year program to help all of Mississippi's children improve their academic performance.

One of the key provisions in the bill would encourage states and school districts to consider new innovative teaching techniques and initiate reforms to improve elementary and secondary schools. The measure's emphasis is placed on results and flexibility, rather than on a specific process.

The bill is a major departure from the traditional way the federal government has assisted education in the past. The federal government would give Mississippi and local com-munitles much more freedom in the decision making process as to where funds are needed to best educate our children.

The measure would require widespread participation and local decision-making by educators, business people and parents in developing state and local education reform plans. In addition, states would be required to give priority status to those plans that demonstrate the widest local support.

The bottom line is that while the bill requires the establishment of curricular frameworks in specific subject matter areas, it does not specific what these specific subject matter areas

Mississippi's school districts could use their funds to support non-traditional activities such as, early childhood programs, professional development prog-rams for teachers or duplicate successful programs that have been proven at the local level.

It would be at the discretion of the state and school districts as to which additional activities

BY JANET MCQUEEN

The Bay St. Louis Business Association will host a free Concert in the Park Saturday, August 22 from 6 p.m. until at City Park, Bay City Hall.

The theme is "An All-American Picnic," according to chairman Carole Ripley, Providing entertainment will be Art Cissell and The Stardusters, a 15-piece Swing Era band.

A celebrity picnic basket will be auctioned by Barry Pincus. Prizes will be given for the best decorated table or blanket in the following categories:

Arranging old and new furnishings or furniture of different styles is a challenging task. To be successful at eclectic design, apply the same principles you would when using furnishings of all one type.

By combining furniture, color and accessories, your goal is to link what seem like unrelated items into a room with feeling, flavor and character. It is difficult to achieve a feeling of unity with indiscriminate combinations. Old, new and period furnishings are more likely to blend well if they express similar ideas or a common feeling. Achieve a harmonious look by using similar elements, but include some variation for interest. Consider carefully line, shape, scale and proportion and style. Vertical lines in furnishings tend to give a room a feeling of formality and dignity. Horizontal lines tend to give a feeling of casualness and relaxation.

Curved lines can give a feeling of informality and movement. Look for repetition of similar lines to tie old and new pieces together.

If a room has all straight lines or all curved lines, some contrast will add interest. To do this, plan for one dominant type of line, then add small amounts of a contrasting line.

For instance, the flowing lines of one or two Victorian pieces would add interest to modern room with dominant straight lines.

Look for similarity of shape in both old and new pieces. Again, one idea should be dominant, but a few contrasting shapes will add interest if a consistent approach is used. For example, a rounded chair and a round table will help add interest to a room filled with square or rectangular furniture.

Consider the relative size or scale of objects. Very few things are small or large by themselves; when you place objects together their size becomes apparent. So, mixing pieces that are very different from each other may present problems. For example, a small lightweight chair or table of any period will seem too small if placed near a large sofa. However, either may be all right if placed in another area of the

The style of furniture as a whole fits into two of these categories: -Pieces that are strong, heavy or bold in design. -Pieces that are delicate, light or refined.

In both categories will be pieces with straight line or curved lines, round or square shapes and ornamented or plain appearances. In general, all pieces of furniture that fall into one category are compatible since they share the same or similar characteristics.

Many pieces may not fit completely in either category but are more in one than the other. It is on the heavy and bold side or the delicate and refined side?

Different styles of furniture from the same period can usually be combined because of related qualities in color, texture, scale, style and character.

For example, Chippendale and Queen Anne styles are often used together successfully. The compatibility lies not so much in style, but in similarity of character or mood. For instance, a rustic country style oak table would be too informal to combine successfully with a formal Chippendale chair.
To successfully combine furnishings, let one style of furniture dominate, but a few wellchosen pieces of another style or styles will add contrast and

Okra—Southern style

If there's one vegetable thoroughly identified with the South and Southern cooking, it's okra. It is not so popular in other parts of our country. Okra grows profusely during the hot summer months even when cultivated by reluctant gardeners such as I!

"Eat more okra; it cools the blood, and is good for you" as the old saying goes. As the temperature soars these hot August days, I remember to heed that advice, and step up the okra dishes on the menu—a pleasant task, as okra is tasty in so many

I prefer, of course, the young tender okra pods, and find them delicious when barely simmer-steamed until tender, then chilled and served with oil and vinegar and pepper, with a dash

Okra is also tasty when braised or sauteed in bacon drippings or a little olive oil, after you've washed the okra pods and sliced off the stems, adding a little lemon juice to overcome the "slipperiness."

Stir the okra often as it cooks, and add a half cup of chopped onions or chopped green onions, cooking until the okra is tender.

For many Southern cooks, fresh okra means a heaping platter of crisper than crisp quick-fried slices, "French Fried Okra," with its oyster-like taste; they're usually called "Okra Oysters" and are served as a side dish or as a tidbit on the appetizer tray or as a quick

Some cooks dredge the okra

1 lb. fresh, tender young okra, washed, with the stems cut off, and cut crosswise into 1/2-inch pieces

Next the okra slices are dredged in the cornmeal or flour or crumbs. I like to refrigerate the okra for a half hour or more to ensure that the coating stays on the okra when you cook it. Fry the slices in hot oil. Drain well, and serve immediately. (This freezes well for reheating when you want an impromptu snack.)

For a lighter accent in cooking okra I sometimes "fry" the okra in the oven, as in: OVEN "FRIED" OKRA

New research improves garden plant varieties

By Dr. Milo Burnham Horticulturist Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service

· Horticulture/genetic research has been in the news quite a bit lately with the announcement that "genetically altered/bioengineered" tomatoes will soon hit the market. Large numbers of research companies are developing tomatoes, melons, potatoes, celery, carrots, cucumbers and other food crops that contain genetic information not given by Mother Nature, but by the laboratory researcher. When these advances filter down to gardeners, there will be new and exciting varieties to grow. Current recommendations for gardeners include the use of disease-resistant varieties to lessen garden problems and reduce the need for applying pesticides. In time there should be many more diseaseand insect-resistant varieties.

The new bioengineered tomato variety making the headlines is Flavr Savr. This variety promises to be even better than Long Keeper, which offered the opportunity to grow tomatoes in the fall and store them for midwinter use.

Long Keeper has the genetic property of slow/non-ripening. While the tomato was slow to ripen, it lacked the red color desired in ripe tomatoes.

Flavor Sayr is touted as having the quality of extended shelf-life when ripe, meaning the tomatoes can remain on the ... some other new varieties: that:

plant longer before harvest and will hold on the kitchen counter without softening and rotting for a much longer time than the should be available as soon as next year are the All-America Selections for 1993.

One new vegetable is Baby Bear pumpkin with is a 1% to 2 tomatoes we now grow. These traits are reportedly brought about by an alteration in the tomato gene responsible for the enzyme that results in the progressive breakdown of the tomato tissue. The Food and Drug Administration announced in May that almost all genetically engi-neered foods will be allowed on the market without special tests and that special labeling identifying them won't be required.

As you might expect, an outcry has been heard about putting these genetically altered foods on the market. A group of chefs has stated that they will not use them in preparing meals for the public.

Some people are just afraid of anything new or different. With an attitude like that, would we be enjoying nectarines? Nectar-ines originated as a sponta-neous genetic change of a fuzzy peach that occurred spontaneously. While we wait with enticipation for these new vegetables to work their way to gardeners.

pound pumpkin of the jacko'-lantern type. It can be used as a table decoration, a small jacko'-lantern, or a pumpkin for pie filling. The seeds are hulless.

The second vegetable named an All America Selection for 1993 is a tomato with the name Husky Gold. This tomato is described as being of 7 to 8 ounce weight, having a gold color, and excellent flavor.

Husky Gold is described as being dwarf-indeterminate which may be interpreted as continuing to grow throughout the season but never getting very tall.

The All America flowers for 1993 are a white nierembergia named Mont Blanc, and a magenta verbena named Imagination Verbena x speciosa. For those gardeners unfamiliar with nierembergia, it is a low-growing plant useful for edging, mass display and hanging baskets.

Imagination verbena is described as tolerant of the same weather conditions.

Fishing is good at Creole Gap

It's time to go fishin' y'all. Geez, I just know it was bound to happen sooner or later. The word about the great fishin' in and around Hancock County has now gotten out on the national level. The Prez has apparently heard about the great fishin' that we have down here and maybe that is why he and the Vice Prez are coming down this Friday. Anybody who watches the news knows that the Prez likes to go fishin' big time and goes fishin' whenever he can. It's just that more important things like running the country come first. So I guess when he gets the chance to go fishin' he wants to go to the best place he can possibly go. Naturally, that best place would be a place like Mississippi. He must have been reading about the places, that the turtle has been reporting, that have been producing the best catches of fish.

The biggest catch this past week was by Craig and Bruce Seller and friends.

They fished the Creole Gap area and really hit the jackpot. They caught about 180 specks and were able to keep enough to make their limit. They were pleasantly surprised to find that there was a high ratio of keeper size specks to "throw backs." They also reported that they have never seen as many white trout as there now are in the deep holes in the Marsh passes. Their catch included, in addition to their specks, ground mullet, flounders, and a few reds. Later in the day Craig Sellier reports that he caught a very large Sting Ray.

The Ray was said to go about 80 pounds. Before Craig could land the fish a 20-foot Mako grabbed the hook and gave him the strongest fight that he ever encountered.

According to Craig, "It was terrible, he kept taking out line until I was sure that there was no way to stop the Mako. Finally, the Mako noticed that he was hooked and turned off the 200hp Mercury on his transom, shrimp that Ringo always talks about? LaFrance reports that they are beaucoup plenty flat fish being caught at Long Point and Herron Bay point. The really significant thing about the dropped anchor and cut my line." Craig further stated that they only had "mineral water" on board their boat.

Anyway, the Marsh is producing mixed bags of fish on a variety of bait. The number one bait seems to be live shrimp. Next in line of preference by the fish seems to be dead shrimp and chartreuse beetles. Fish your bait under a popping cork for specks. Fish on the bottom for the ground mullet and the white trout.

Tommy Bordage reports that he and his daughter caught a big bunch of specks just out from the mouth of Bayou Caddy. They went to the west a few hundred feet after they cleared the mouth of Bayou Caddy, anchored, and started fishin'. They caught about 30 nice keeper trout using live shrimp under a popping cork. I wonder if they were using the trained live flounders is their large size. It seems that they would make nice door mats. The flat fish are biting on a variety of baits. The most productive seem to be live cacaho minnows and live shrimp. There are some reports of the flat fish being caught on silver spoons such as the Johnson Sprite for those folks who just absolutely gotta use artificial baits.

If you plan to fish the Half Moon island, or the Grassy Island area, you are gonna need to take some Spanish lessons as the Spanish speaking fish seem to have taken over these islands as their sovereign domain. The Spanish Mackerel are responding to the Mr. Champ with a yellow buck tail, Turtle, special straw baits and live shrimp. I am getting reports from all over that there are huge numbers of small specks that are starting to show up all along the shore line. In fact, some folks are reporting that they have a hard time remembering the last time they have seen so many small specks running up and down the shore line. I am sure glad to hear the reports of so many small specks, as very few were showing up for most of the summer. Reports coming in all summer indicated that mostly big trout were being caught. The smaller fish that are showing up seem to indicate that the future of our specks looks promising.

This week's wonderful wise words: We have fishin' that the rest of the country only dreams about. Take care of our resources, people, or it will be gone. Hope you catch some nice ones, Mr. Prez, turtle.

Players will need to bring shin guards and a soccer ball. Players may also register for the 1992-1993 Soccer Year.

The fee will again be $30 for. the entire fall and spring seasons. More information on these clinics may be obtained by calling Tom Demoboski at 467-4773.

Just for kicks

Bay Area Youth Soccer forms team for 5-year-olds

BY JANET MCQUEEN Bay Area Youth Soccer is looking for five-year-olds who: -are worried about kindergarten;

—are bored (no kicks in life);

-whose parents are a drag;

—want to have a ball! That's how Under 6 All-Star soccer coach Waddy LeBourgeois describes potential new players for the youngest team in the BAYS league.

The only requirement is that players must not have turned six by August 1.

LeBourgeois teaches soccer tactics and techniques, apparently quite successfully, as several of his former players have continued to play to the high school level and beyond.

He also coaches the Our Lady Academy soccer team, and this year watched two of his players earn college scholarships.

The first practice will be September 1 at the Waveland Little League Baseball Park, Central at Waveland Avenue.

For more information or an application, call LeBourgeois at 467-3036 or 467-2366.

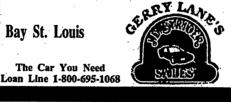

BWYC claims Knost title

Claiming the championship trophy last weekend in the 55th annual Knost Regatta at the Pass Christian Yacht Club were skipper Judy McKinney and crew Weezie Kennedy and Sara Smolenski.

The Bay-Waveland trio held the lead throughout the threerace series and won the championship with 6% points.

St. Andrew's Bay Yacht Club of Panama City took second place with 13 points.

Some 633 entries in all fields of the region's fashion industry were submitted. The 1992 Alpha judges panel included New York-based haute couture designer Judy Hornby; Gene Meyer, New York accessory designer and former assistant to designer Geoffrey Beene; Elaine Taylor-Gordon, president of Taylor-Gordon, Aarons & Co., Inc. Advertising, of New York; Garry Gross, fashion photographer of New York; and Dan Kerscher, artistic direct of of the Jon English Salon in Minneapolis.

They selected a total of 126 winners in such fields as design, live presentation, education, community service events, hair and makeup design, advertising, photography, editorial, store planning and visual presentation.

The Alpha awards were founded in 1985 by The Fashion Group International Inc., Alpha Region (comprised of Louisiana, Mississippi, Arkansas, southern Alabama and the Florida panhandle) to honor excellence in the fashion industry of the region.

Since its inception in 1985, Church has been honored by receiving 42 Alpha awards, the only designer in the five-state region to have been so honored.

THE SEA COAST ECHO-THURSDAY, AUGUST 20, 1992-1B

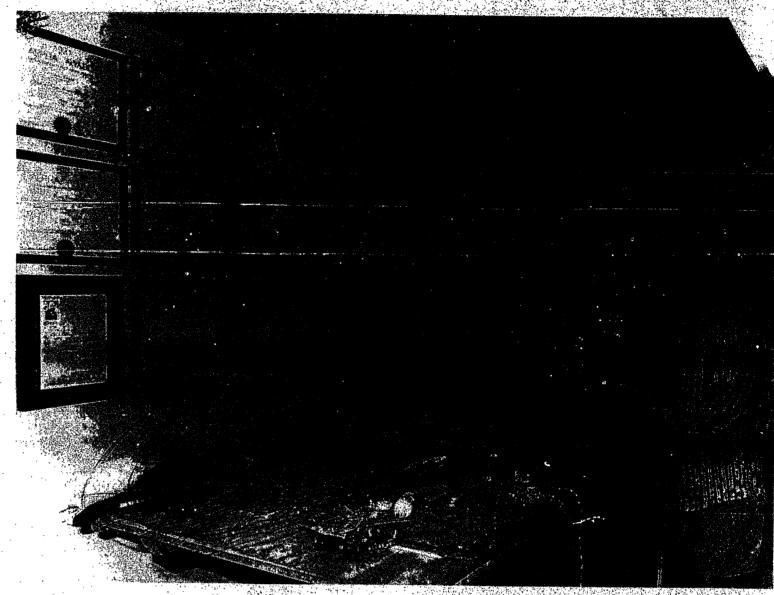

Nationally recognized and acclaimed for his designs and production in haute couture and bridal, Church is recognized as a premiere designer in the Gulf States area for carnival costuming. Last year Dillard's Department Stores commissioned Church to do a specialty line of carnival-inspired clothing for their stores for the Mardi Gras season.

A native of Mississippi, Church has a home in Bay St. Louis and recently relocated his studio to 416 Main Street in the heart of the Bay's Olde Town District.

Having begun his design career at age 10 and having designed his first carnival costume when he was 15, Church says, "I'm now designing graduation and debut gowns for the daughters of the mothers I designed for years ago."

Among his client list are the majority of the carnival krewes in New Orleans as well as in the Gulf Coast area; Thibodaux, Louisiana and Mobile; and the "who's who" of the Gulf Coast fashion elite.

His work has ben profiled in The Times Picayune, WWL-TV4, and nationally on PM Magazine.

TO BE STORY OF THE STORY OF THE

Bay High needs mentor volunteers

Bay High School is in the process of establishing a student mentor program. Its goal is to match caring adults with students who need a one-to-one mentoring/counseling relationship.

For at least three months for about one to two hours a week, time should be spent with the student in a friendly, nonthreatening atmosphere.

"The mentor will help at-risk students navigate difficult turns in the road," said coordinator Melissa Johnson. "But they will concentrate on provid-ing maps and making the road better rather than developing the traveller."

The goal of a mentor relationship is to become involved in a student's life and to provide him/her a positive model to follow.

The students are identified by teachers and school administrators as needing assistance. "They may come from broken or over-burdened homes. This program is not meant as a parent substitution or condemnation, but rather a means of helping meet students' overlooked needs.

"A mentor can make the difference between a child dropping out and becoming a burden on society, or staying in school and becoming a productive member of society," said Johnson.

Bay High is in need of businesses who are willing to commit employees to the program by allowing them to participate during business hours. Students are available from 8 a.m. until 3 p.m.

Those interested in becoming mentor volunteers at Bay High. School or seeking more information may contact Johnson at 467-5297 (guidance department at Bay High School). The school request applicants contact the office by September,

Park office dedication

County supervisors and park commissioners, a Pearl River County supervisor, and officials from the Pearl River Basin Development District (PRBDD) were among those attending a ribbon cutting August 11 to dedicate new extensions to the McLeod County Park office. The drive-up admission window and drop arm, and the concessions store built for the convenience of campers, were jointly funded by the county and PRBDD. During the ribbon cutting, Mike Davis (center) of PRBDD received a plaque on behalf of the district, given by the board of supervisors for the district's assistance with the office and other projects in the park. Well worth it

I rode 10 hours for a steak dinner this past weekend. Not any old steak dinner, though; this was a Quincy's steak dinner. Now, I know what you're thinking: What an idiot this woman is! Why travel 10 hours for a meal she could have gotten in Biloxi? Simple. The Quincy's I went to had something the one here didn't: the presence of my 86-year-old grandmother. Grandma Ray (Mom's mom), who lives in Starkville, turned 86 Saturday. All her children, a couple of the spouses (including my dad) and I took her out to Grandma's favorite eating place is Western Sizzlin. So, we set out for the Western Sizzlin near Shoney's in Starkville.

Well, those dirty, lowdown, sidewindin' cowpokes had apparently turned into farmers without telling anyone, because when we got to the restaurant, the sign out front said the eatery was now Country Harvest.

You know what that means, don't you? Plenty of chicken and veggies, but not a steak to be

Grandma said it didn't matter, that she'd eat just about anything, but we wouldn't hear of it. We figured that on her birthday, she ought to be able to eat what she wanted — namely, a ribeye steak.

So, we piled back into the cars and went to Quincy's. Grandma said she'd never eaten there, but I can recall at least one time that she and I went there.

However, I didn't contradict her. When you've lived 86 years and raised seven children. you're entitled to forget trivial things, like where you've eaten, now and then. We had a great time at the restaurant, chowing down on steaks of various sorts and joking with each other as if it had been only a few days and not seven months since we'd last seen each other. One of my aunts told the waitress that it was Grandma's birthday, and within about five minutes the waitress had brought over a whipped creamand-sprinkles-topped brownie with a candle in it, as well as the Quincy's Tabernacle Choir, which sang "Happy Birthday' with us to Grandma.

We faltered a bit on the "Dear --" part, since the wait staff didn't know her name, and those of us at the table called her different things — you know, "Grandma", "Mama" and "Mrs. Ray" — but we all had a good laugh out of it.

We ended the visit with some more socializing, then Mom, Dad and I hit the road again for the Coast.

All in all, we were in Starkville about three hours.

I know; it sounds crazy to spend 10 hours on the road for a three-hour steak dinner and

Coast trolley increases hours

Coast Area Transit has extended hours of weekend service on the Beachcomber Line Trolleys. The trolleys operate Fridays, Saturdays and Sundays from 9:25 a.m. until 12:20

"Trolleys will run every 50 minutes between Courthouse Road and Point Cadet and every hour and 20 minutes between Courthouse road and Pass Christian," said Spokesman Keith Ballard.

Plans to increase trolley service to seven days a week are under ocnsideration and could be in place by Sept. 1.

Fare is one dollar per zone.

Zone lines are established at the ends of the line: Church Avenue in Pass Christian and Point Cadet in Biloxi, as well as the Courthouse Road Pavilion. A one-day Coast Tour Pass,

Post 58 begins membership drive

The Post 58 Volunteer Fire and Rescue Department announces the beginning of the '92-'93 annual membership drive.
